

THE 72 NAMES OF GOD

Technology for the Soul

THURSDAY, APRIL 24: Loads of celebs — such as Stephanie Seymour and Melanie Griffith — turned up on Randall's Island for the opening night of Cirque du Soleil's "Varekai."

We caught rap impresario Damon Dash with Richie Akiva (who co-owns Butter) sneaking out of the big top during intermission to catch up with Madonna at the launch party for Rabbi Yehuda Berg's book, "The 72 Names of God," at The New Museum on Broadway. But by the time they got there, Madonna and husband Guy Ritchie had already split.

New York Post, Sunday, April 27, 2003 nypost.com